{ an artists' retreat to cuyahoga valley national park }

For a few days in October, I joined nine of my artist friends in Cuyahoga Valley National Park for an autumn retreat. For two nights we called Stanford House our home, and ventured out each day to paint the surrounding area. Cuyahoga Valley National Park is a lovely forested area nestled between two of Ohio's largest post-industrial cities, Akron and Cleveland. The area joined the National Park Service in the 1970s and is anchored along the banks of the Ohio and Erie Canal and "the river that sparked the Clean Water Act". Small towns dot the area and there is plenty to do and see. The following pages capture our short but prolific visit.

{what we took home}

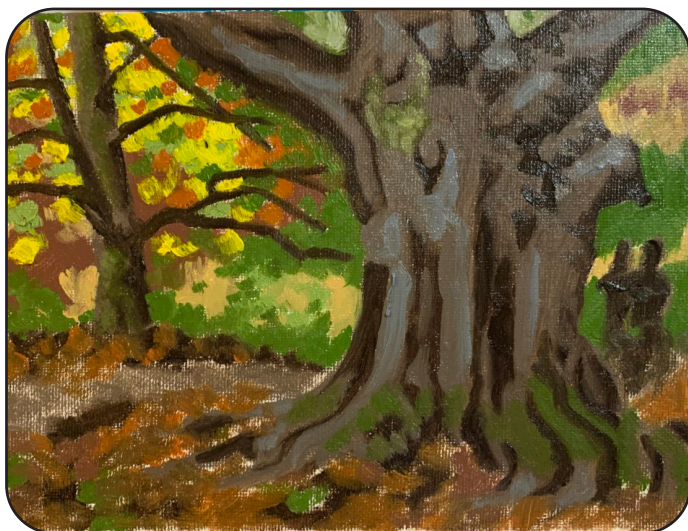

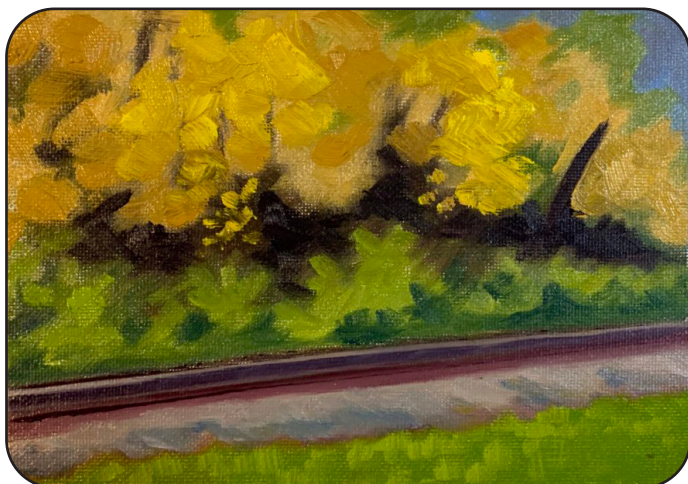

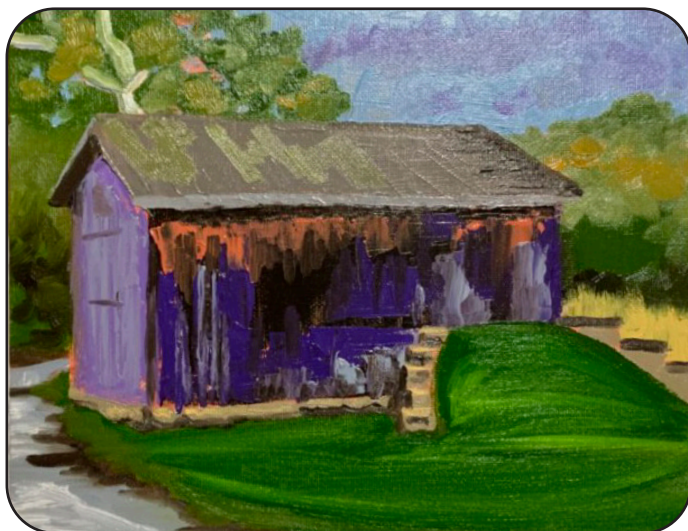

Clockwise from top left: An oil painting of the forest by Marty Husted; oil paintings of Stanford Farm Barn, trees bordering a meadow, and a bridge over the river by Marianne Miller; an oil painting of Indigo Lake by Marty Husted.

*“And into the forest I go to lose my mind
and find my soul.”
– John Muir*

Top right to bottom right: The Purple Barn at Stanford Farm,
Autumn Leaves Along the Railroad, and Entrance to Stanford Trail, by Katherine N. Crowley, oil on canvas panel.
